04 CONDITIONS

Submission before first use

If the Company does not respond within this period, the version submitted is deemed released if the Recipient pointed this out when submitting it.

Duration

End of the limited period

The Company may revoke the release at any time in text form (section 126b BGB) with effect for the future. The Recipient then removes the information from the Recipient's own electronic media within 14 days and does not use it in new documents. Works already published or submitted for publication and talks already given remain unaffected.

The release is granted free of charge and may be declared in electronic form; an electronic signature or the reproduction of the name in text form is sufficient (section 126b BGB). Otherwise the agreed confidentiality duties continue to apply.

In the case of a research study the Company is named only to the extent that no interviewee becomes identifiable as a result or the interviewee has consented. In the case of a thesis the rights of the author and the rules of the university remain unaffected.

05 CONSENT OF THE PERSON QUOTED

☐ I consent to Felix Reher using my name, my function and the quotation stated above in the media ticked above (Article 6(1)(a) GDPR).

☐ I consent to a photograph provided by me being used for this purpose (section 22 sentence 1 KunstUrhG).

The controller is Felix Reher, Am Pfeilshof 9A, 22393 Hamburg, Germany, mail@felixreher.de, telephone +49 40 64087520. Consent is voluntary; without it the quotation is not used. The information is used until revocation or until the end of the release. Recipients are the readers and listeners of the media named.

I may withdraw my consent at any time with effect for the future (Article 7(3) GDPR); the information is then removed from the electronic media within 14 days, and printed publications remain unaffected. I have the rights under Articles 15 to 18 and 20 GDPR and the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority (Article 77 GDPR).

Consent may be given by hand or electronically; the controller keeps it as evidence (Article 7(1) GDPR).
